HOW PIE WILL BE DISTRIBUTED

Clerks Arranged at Counter Yesterday.

Republican State Executive Committee Adopts Resolutions Whereby It Is Hoped That Distribution of Patronage Will Not Fall Wholly on Head of State Chairman—Taft Endorsed For President—Douglas Will Be Recommended As Postmaster Here—Holton Endorsed.

"Pie" was the topic for discussion at yesterday's meeting of the Republican State Executive Committee, or rather the manner in which the pie shall be distributed was. State Chairman Morehead, it appears, did not like the idea of the hungry pie hunters piling on his head all the blame for not securing them an office so he devised a scheme and called the committee together to resolute.

Under the new plan of distribution there will be two clerks behind the counter in every district and these will recommend to Chairman Morehead, who is chief clerk of the entire counter, what office seekers in their district shall get the plums. Mr. Morehead will simply endorse the recommendations and forward them to the President. In cases where an office covers more than one Congressional district a special committee of five from the State Executive Committee shall pass upon their application and if after examination it is found that they can eat pie in accordance with the latest fashion two thirds of this committee will so recommend and the endorsement of Mr. Morehead will accompany the recommendations to Mr. Taft.

The resolutions, which are given below, were introduced by Col. H. C. Dockery, and were bitterly opposed by C. H. Cowles, of Wilkesboro, who was the only member of the Duncan faction equal to the occasion. He declared that in effect this would be a return to the referee system condemned by Mr. Taft some years ago. The odds were against him so Mr. Cowles could not effect an amendment, though he made a desperate effort to do so. The local Duncan men declare that it is a return of the referee system and that while Duncan is temporarily ousted he will "come back" in the near future; that he has not yet quit the field.

Another set of resolutions, introduced by Thomas Settle, Esq., in effect endorse Postmaster Douglas for reappointment, thus giving notice to the other aspirants for this piece of pie, Messrs. Ben Sharpe and Hiram Worth, more than a year in advance that they stand no show. President Taft in his recent message stated that where a postmaster had served his patrons in an acceptable manner and his record was satisfactory with the department he should receive the appointment for the second term. In this he as good as said that in such cases he was going to appoint the present encumbents, despite other recommendations, so there was nothing for the committee to do but fall in line with his views.

In this second set of resolutions the President's present administration is heartily endorsed and the committee pledges itself to work for his renomination and election two years from last November. It says: "We especially invite the attention of the people of the South to the fact that President Taft, more than any executive in the last half century, has featured as one of the chief policies of his administration a most liberal policy towards the South, and we deplore the fact that Democratic politicians of the South have wilfully and persistently perverted his true motives, and have thus far failed to meet him in the spirit of his overtures. We heartily endorse the administration and policies of President W. H. Taft. He is a national and not a section president, and we pledge ourselves to labor for his renomination and reelection."

The resolutions by Col. Dockery regarding the manner in which offices are to be filled follow:

"Resolved—In order to broaden the scope and effectiveness of the State organization that the members of the State Executive Committee residing in each Congressional district together with the chairman of the State committee shall constitute a sub-committee for their respective districts to whom shall be referred all matters of a controverted character arising in their respective districts, within the jurisdiction of the State committee, and their decision shall be final until otherwise revoked or reversed by the State committee.

"Resolved further that a sub-committee of five members of the State committee to be elected at this meeting together with the State chairman be constituted a committee for the decision of matters of wider range than Congressional district affairs—and that upon all matters coming before this committee so constituted a two-thirds vote of this committee shall be final. In the event of failure on the part of this committee to arrive at a two-thirds decision by vote—the case or matter under consideration shall be referred to the whole State Executive Committee for final disposition."

The first direct blow at the Duncan faction was the recommendation that District Attorney Holton be retained, his former term having expired two years ago, for the remaining two years. The committee also endorsed the reappointment of George H. Brown as collector for the western district and of Jos. G. Walser as postmaster of Lexington. There were also several recommendations as to certain offices in different parts of the State.

The Meeting.

The committee met in the McAdoo hotel yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock and was in session until after six. In addition to the members of the committee, about fifteen being present, there were a number of prominent politicians and pie hunters from all portions of the State in attendance. A portion of the meeting was open to the entire assemblage, but the major portion of the time the committee was in secret session, the hall being filled meantime with the anxious aspirants for federal patronage. But two Duncan men graced the meeting with their presence and these had but little sayso in what was done. It was considered a complete victory for the Morehead faction, but the Duncan men who nosed around declared that their leader was amply able to "come back" and would again be heard from.

What was done behind the closed doors had not leaked out last night but it was rumored that some of the matters brought up were discussed quite vigorously and it took some time for the committee to get together. Mr. Gilliam Grissom was seen last night and asked regarding the rumor that the committee had ousted Butler. He stated that Butler's name was not mentioned during the entire session; that Butler was not a part of the party. He declared that Butler had no more to do with the distribution of patronage than any other citizen. If Mr. Morehead tendered his resignation nothing about it leaked out last night, but it is not believed that he did so. However, he is sick of the entire job and it is no secret that when he gets out he will not want a renomination. In fact he is reported as saying that he never wants another office, either elective or appointive; that politics is not his calling.

A number of the members of the committee from the Southern and Western portion of the State returned home last night, but the majority remained over night, holding conferences with Mr. Morehead and other prominent Republicans present. It is believed among the members of the committee that the new method of distributing patronage will have a tendency to unite the Morehead and Duncan factions, but it is doubtful if this is the case. Duncan will not have a chance to show his hand until another Morehead man is recommended and should he then frustrate the appointment by prevailing on the President to appoint a man of his choice it would cause consternation in the party throughout the State. Whether this will be done remains to be seen, but his supporters here are confident that he still holds the winning hand.

It is rumored that the Duncan forces hope to regain control in 1912 by rallying to the support of Roosevelt and thus oust the Morehead men and elect Duncan as State chairman. However, this idea is hooted at by those who are on Duncan's side of the fence.

Among the members of the committee present were D. W. Patrick, Snow Hill; George Butler, Clinton; C. H. Cowles, Wilkesboro; Thos. Settle, Asheville; H. C. Dockery, Rockingham; R. G. Campbell, Greensboro; J. J. Parker, Smithfield; J. C. McGaskill, Tarboro; I. V. Tucker, Whiteville.

Funeral This Morning.

The funeral of Miss Stella, the thirteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Orzali, of 1013 Spring Garden street, who died Tuesday night at St. Leo's hospital, will be conducted from the Catholic church by Rev. Vincent Taylor, today at ten o'clock. The interment will be in Greene Hill cemetery.

E. H. NORVILL IS REAPPOINTED

Enrolling Clerk of The Legislature.

His Work Under Supervision of Secretary of State—Laws Bearing on Control and Publicity of Corporations Will Most Likely Be Revised to Concentrate the Work Now Attended to by Several Departments of State.

Raleigh, Dec. 28.—Secretary of State J. Bryan Grimes has reappointed E. B. Norvill, of Cherokee county, as enrolling clerk for the approaching session of the General Assembly. He has served as enrolling clerk now for a number of sessions and his experience and efficiency are come to be regarded as almost indispensable. The work of the enrolling department has been under the immediate supervision of the secretary of state since 1901 and this change has developed quite a saving for the state, it is said, in addition to bringing about a system that has brought the work of the department to a high degree of accuracy. In economy the state is said to be getting the bills enrolled in duplicate and with much greater accuracy and more accessible volumes than ever before.

When the approaching General Assembly comes to consider the revision of laws bearing on the control and publicity of corporations there is sure to be strong pressure brought to bear to have a very considerable concentration of system as to the reports that the corporations are required to turn in to state departments. There is the strongest sort of complaint among corporation officials now about the number of calls made on them now for reports of various sorts. There is the call of the Corporation Commission for report on which the corporate excess tax is estimated. This is certified to the state auditor from the Corporation Commission and the auditor drops in on the corporation an order for the payment of this tax to the treasurer. In the meantime the state treasurer is calling on them for reports and remittances for franchise tax. Then there are calls by the secretary of state for reports of officers and directors for state records and calls from the state department of labor for reports to be used in the annual reports of the commissioner. The insistances is that there should be a consolidation of these reports to a considerable degree, one state department taking the work in hand and calling for one report that will eliminate to a large degree this multiplicity of reports. A number of corporations are understood to have threatened to return to co-partnership status for their business if there is not some relief from the report burden now entailed.

GIVES LAWYER THE LIE

And Lawyer Tells Assessor He Is Not a Coward.

Atlantic City, Dec. 28.—City Tax Assessor David R. Barrett and Clarence L. Cole, leader of the Atlantic county Democracy, had a run-in-at the meeting of the County Board of Taxation yesterday afternoon, when Cole accused Barrett of raising the assessment on his property for personal reasons. Barrett took umbrage at the statement and called him a liar. Cole was astounded and turned white. He retorted that he might be a liar, but was not a coward, and that the assessor was at liberty to take that up any time he might see fit.

The trouble arose over a petition by Cole to have the assessment on his property on Atlantic avenue reduced. He declared that it was excessive and that the raise had been made by the assessor for purely personal reasons. After the squabble Mr. Cole asked for his papers, and when they had been passed to him by the president of the board, he separated them, and placing the petition in his pocket, announced that he would withdraw it.

MARRIED BEFORE APPOINTED HOUR

Bride and Groom Ushered Before Assemblage of Friends Who Had Gathered to Witness Ceremony and Introduced As Man and Wife—The Wedding Supper Enjoyed, However.

Monday evening Mr. William Gilbreath and Miss Mabel Fields furnished some seasonable amusement for their relatives and friends. They were married, it must be said in the outset, but with some irregularity as to time and place. Great preparations had been made for the nuptials in the Fields home, which was beautifully and elaborately decorated for the occasion, the parlor and dining room were brilliantly lighted, the table set and laden with rich viands, and all the invited guests present and waiting with eager, expectant faces.

Soon it was whispered that the happy couple were present; softly the strains of the wedding march were heard to issue from the piano, played by Professor Holt. A quiet and reverential stillness reigned throughout the house, when in a moment the bride and groom entered, accompanied by Mrs. Giles Edwards, aunt of the bride, and Miss May Belle Sloan. Then Mrs. Edwards created a silent consternation and a momentary awe too deep for expression, when she stepped forward to introduce the couple as Mr. and Mrs. Gilbreath. They had driven to the home of Rev. Mr. Long about four o'clock that evening, who joined them in marriage. The secret was made known only to the aunt, Mrs. Edwards, until the marriage was to take place, as announced, at the home of Miss Fields.

Congratulations and merriment were then in order, after which the couple, friends and relatives repaired to the dining room where surprise and mingled joy, together with the spirit of Christmas and the radiant happiness of innocent and holy love, made the occasion one of the most truly pleasant and genuinely enjoyable of the entire season.

The bride is a lovable young woman and has a host of friends in the city. The groom is a promising young business man of the city. Many beautiful and useful presents were received in token of the esteem in which the couple is held.

PRISONER WOUNDED

Rockingham County Sends Negro to Jail With Bullet in His Leg.

A negro was yesterday brought to Greensboro as a prisoner from Rockingham county, the use of the jail here having been tendered to Rockingham county while that county's prison house is in course of construction. The negro had been shot by an officer and was suffering when he reached Greensboro, on account of the pistol-shot wound in one of his legs. The officer in company with some deputies were in pursuit of the man near Stoneville, when he turned and fired at the posse. The shot was returned and the negro wounded.

HIATT—BUTLER NUPTIALS.

Former Greensboro Man Married In Clinton Last Tuesday.

Mr. E. T. Hiatt, formerly of Greensboro, and brother of R. G. Hiatt and W. A. Hiatt, both of this city, was married in Clinton, December 27, to Miss Mittie Butler. The ceremony was performed by Rev. DeLoach, pastor of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Hiatt came to Greensboro Tuesday night and are spending a few days with relatives and friends. They will make their home in Clinton.

Sumner Township Sunday School Convention.

The Sumner Township Sunday School Convention will be held at Red Hill church Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, there being also an afternoon session. A number of prominent Sunday school workers will be present and make addresses on some phase of the work. The annual election of township officers will also occur and a township member of the county executive committee elected. The president, Mr. J. O. Newman, requests that there be a full attendance from all schools in the township. The work in Sumner is quite encouraging and the officers are hoping that every worker will get behind the work in a determined effort to increase the usefulness of the association.

VOTE SELLERS INDICTED.

Nearly a Thousand True Bills Returned In Ohio.

West Union, Ohio, Dec. 28.—The Adams county grand jury early today reported 145 additional true bills against citizens accused of selling their votes at the November election. This makes a total of 959 indictments already returned and, as special prosecutor Stephenson puts it, "we have only scratched the surface so far."

The procession of penitents who are coming to court daily to plead guilty keeps up. It has become somewhat of a point of pride with the indicted citizens to beat the deputy sheriffs by getting to court before warrants can be served.

Judge Blair's methods in listening to the pleas of guilty are extremely informal. He knows a large proportion of the voters of the county by their first names and when they come into court the scene is rather a social one. The judge sits on one side of a plain table, the indicted man on the other.

"How about it, John, are you guilty?" asks the judge.

"I reckon I am judge," is the usual reply.

"All right, John, I'll have to fine you $10 and you can't vote any more for five years. And I'll just put a six months workhouse sentence on top of that, but I won't enforce it as long as you behave."

"All right judge, you've got the goods on me. Good-bye."

SEA ISLAND COTTON.

Fact That Staple Can Be Raised In Louisiana Demonstrated.

New Orleans, Dec. 28.—A number of planters on the lower coats of Louisiana this year experimented with Sea Island cotton with the result that it has been found that the product can be raised here, and next year will see the planting of that grade of the staple.

On the Jurgins plantation and other big tracts as well along the Mississippi river Sea Island seed was planted along the edge of drainage ditches and given no cultivation whatever. The seed produced immense cotton stalks, some of which bore as many as one hundred and fifty bolls to the stalk. These, when submitted to long staple experts were declared to be worth at the rate of $150 a bale.

While there is not a large market at present in New Orleans for Sea Island cotton, cotton men say that with the production one will be quickly established. Next year several hundred acres will be devoted to Sea Island cotton. This will offer hope to the spinners who have used all the production afforded in this country and they are becoming more and more alarmed over the supply.

FACTS ABOUT GREENSBORO.

Chamber of Commerce Compiles Attractive Booklet Regarding City.

The Chamber of Commerce has gotten out an attractive little booklet, in which it sets forth in condensed form a number of facts about Greensboro and Guilford county. There are also half tone cuts showing the White Oak Mills, St. Leo's Hospital and South Elm street to advantage.

In addition to setting forth the many industries here the climatic conditions and the educational and social advantages of the city are enumerated. One page of the booklet is taken up in stating what enterprises would pay in the city, some of which are: Dairy, creamery, flour mill, shoe factory, knitting mill, shirt factory, cigar factory, poultry farms, pants factory, broom factory, fertilizer factory, wholesale trunk house, wholesale clothing house, wholesale boot and shoe house, automobile factory.

THE GOLF TOURNEY.

Elimination Match Played Yesterday Afternoon on Links.

The elimination contest took place at the golf links yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Six club members took part, making the following scores: A. W. McAllister, 44; G. S. Ferguson, 47; Paul Schenck, 50; Charles Cunningham, 50; F. P. Hobgood, 53; Carter Dalton, 54.

On account of bad weather and the unfavorable condition of the greens, the finals will be played out today at three o'clock. A. W. McAlister and Mr. Ferguson will play for the silver loving cup. If Mr. McAlister wins he will keep the cup, he being the present holder.

The prize of six golf balls is to be played for by the four men who do not participate in the contest for the cup, Mr. Schenck, Mr. Dalton, Mr. Cunningham, and Mr. Hobgood.

AGAIN POSTPONE THE ARGUMENT

Standard Oil Case Set For Friday.

Counsel Not In Trim, Physically, to Argue the Case—Three Charters Granted by Secretary of State Yesterday—Corporation Commission After Southern For Not Correctly Posting Arrival of Trains.

Raleigh, Dec. 28.—The argument in the Standard Oil case is again postponed, this time to Friday at 11 o'clock. Police Justice Stronach made the continuance from Wednesday at 11 o'clock at the request of counsel, some of whom were not in trim physically, they said, today for the argument which promises to be long drawn out with James H. Pou, J. N. Holding and W. N. Snow for the Trust and Attorney General T. W. Bickett and Walter Clark, Jr., city attorney, for the prosecution.

Three charters were granted today for new corporations. The Hardwood Log and Lumber Co., Durham, capital $100,000 by L. James, W. J. Lunsford and others, is one of the most important. Another is for the Bland Farming Co., principal office near Vanceboro, capital $50,000 by J. L. Bland and others, and the Locus Club Co., of Locus, Stanley county, capital $1,000 by W. H. Bartlett and others for the social pleasure of its members.

Owing to recent complaints of flagrant erroneous or careless posting of Southern Railway trains at the union station here the Corporation Commission has called upon the railroad authorities for an explanation in the case Monday when the eastbound Southern train Greensboro to Goldsboro was marked up here half hour late when the train was really four hours late. The company is also asked to explain why this train was allowed to make the run in such crowded condition instead of adding cars as they were needed at Durham and Raleigh to accommodate the passengers as they crowded aboard. This call on the Southern for explanation was made yesterday by the commission.

GOT ONE YEAR.

Hooks Bailey Given Limit by Judge Eure Yesterday—Other Cases in Court.

In Municipal court yesterday morning Hooks, Bailey, the negro who was arrested Tuesday night on the charge of breaking into Stadiem's store, was found guilty. Judge Eure sent him to the roads for twelve months for the offense, this being the longest term the court can impose in any case.

Caesar Gray and Will Lee, carriage drivers who made merry on Tuesday, were arraigned yesterday, being fined $5 each and costs.

Lawrence George and Jerry Castle were charged with engaging in an affray in which deadly weapons were used. George was fined $25 and costs, while Castle was fined $15 and costs.

Tom Slade and Minnie Garrett were charged with engaging in an assault. Slade was fined $10 and costs, while Minnie Garrett was sent to the work house for a period of three months.

Arrested For Hunting on Own Land.

Some time ago Messrs. E. J. Justice and E. D. Broadhurst purchased the J. F. Foust place near Whitsett and the first of the week they went down to hunt. The former owner had leased the land to Strothers Jones, of New York, for the year and the local warden at once served a warrant on Messrs. Justive and Broadhurst for hunting on leased land. They were cited to appear before Squire Davidson and Squire McLean and the trial occurred yesterday. After hearing the evidence the warden was taxed with the costs, the court holding that alease does not prevent the owner from hunting on his property.

Card of Thanks.

We desire, through the columns of this paper to thank our many friends for the many deeds of kindness done during the illness and death of our dear Vivian, and for the deep sympathy in sharing our sorrow and for the beautiful flowers the tokens of love and to every one who in any way sympathized with us in our bereavement.

WHY MR TAFT DOES NOT FAVOR EARLY TARIFF REVISION

President Prefers Not to Reopen Whole Question, But to Make Changes by Schedules When Tariff Board Reports.

Washington, Dec. 28.—There is revived talk in Washington of an extra session of the sixty-second Congress to be called soon after the sixty-first Congress dies, March 3, 1911. Members of Congress, principally Republicans, have made the statement within the last few days that an extra session is inevitable.

If such a session is held it will be because it is forced by members of the present House and Senate filibustering to such an extent that the appropriation bills cannot be passed before midnight of March 3. The present indication is that, on the contrary, the appropriation bills will be out of the way by the first week in February, leaving four weeks in which Congress can devote its entire time to President Taft's legislative programme, outlined in his message of Dec. 6 last.

It can be stated authoritatively that President Taft will not call an extra session of the sixty-second Congress next spring for the purpose of revising any part of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill. The President has two reasons for not calling a session:

First—Under the present rule of the Senate and House, if one schedule of the tariff law were taken up for revision, the entire tariff law would be subject to a revision. On this subject President Taft said in his message:

"The carrying out of this plan (revision by schedules) of course involves the full co-operation of Congress in limiting the consideration in tariff matters to one schedule at a time because if a proposed amendment to a tariff bill is to involve a complete consideration of all the scehdules, and another revision, then we shall only repeat the evil from which the business of this country has in times past suffered most greviously by stagnation and uncertainty pending the resetting of a law affecting all business, directly or indirectly.

Second—The President will not call an extra session of Congress, at least not in the spring, for the revision of the tariff, as he wishes to have any revision based on information gathered by his tariff Board, and in his message to Congress he said:

"It is not likely that the board will be able to make a report during the present session of Congress on any of the schedules, because a proper examination involves an enormous amount of detail and a great deal of care; but I hope to be able at the opening of the new Congress, or at least during the session of that Congress, to bring to its attention the facts in regard to these schedules in the present tariff law

A Simple Safeguard for Mothers.

Mrs. D. Gilkeson, 326 Ingles Ave., Youngstown, Ohio, gained wisdom by experience. "My little girl had a severe cold and coughed almost continuously. My sister recommended Foley's Honey and Tar. The first dose I gave her relieved the inflammation in her throat and after using only one bottle her throat and lungs were entirely free from inflammation. Since then I always keep a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar in the house. Accept no substitutes. Howard Gardner.

A "Gink."

Chicago Tribune.

"Father," asked the boy, "what is a 'gink'?"

"I have only a vague idea, my son," said Prof. McGoozie; "but I presume a gink is a guy, or a geezer, or something of that kind, raised to the nth power."

Saved From Awful Death.

How an appalling calamity in his family was prevented is told by A. D. McDonald, of Fayetteville, N. C. R. F. D. No. 8. "My sister had consumption," he writes, "she was very thin and pale, had no appetitie and seemed to grow weaker every day, as all remedies failed, till Dr. King's New Discovery was tried, and so completely cured her, that she has not been troubled with a cough since. Its the best medicine I ever saw or heard of." For coughs, colds, lagrippe, asthma, croup, hemorrhage-all bronchial troubles, it has no equal, 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. BOLAN DIDN'T WANT HIS BODY RECONSTRUCTED.

So He Fled From Overbrook Asylum—Recaptured, He Tried Again to Escape.

New York World.

Afirm conviction that he was being cut into slices for the use of medical men in experimental laboratories led John Bolan, a member of an old West Orange, (N. J.) family, to flee from the Overbrook, (N. J.) Hospital for the Insane via a fire escape. He was discovered at his old home in West Orange yesterday by Chief of Police Bamford.

As Bolan was being carried in an ambulance to the West Orange police station he shouted for help, shrieking that the asylum folk were going to reconstruct his entire body.

At the police station he was delivered to Keeper Joseph McCarthy. The keeper decided to return to Overbrook by a trolley. As he and Bolan were waiting on Main street, Orange, for a car, Bolan brokoe through a throng of people who were taking their after dinner walk.

Patrick Riley, an ambulance orderly, was in the path of Bolan with his ambulance. He darted in the madman's way and tripped him. Then Bolan was taken back to Overbrook in the ambulance.

Worse than an alarm of fire at night is the metallic cough of croup, bringing dread to the household. Careful mothers keep Foley's Honey and Tar in the house and give it at the first sign of danger. It contains no opiates. Howard Gardner.

Jimswingers.

Chicago Record-Herald.

Another statesman has made the great sartorial refusal. The Governor of Oklahoma declines to wear a dress-suit at his inauguration ball. In the language of the reports from the newer Souhtwest, he balks at the clawhammer and will sport a "jimswinger."

What is a jimswinger?

Is it a frock-coat of the lofty Beveridge order? Is it the nifty cutaway which went out some years ago but has lately been trying to get back? Is it the ordinary sack-coat of business—the "roundabout" of Hoosier poesy? Is it a pair of high-cut overalls? Or is it a flannel shirt set off by a bandanna and a cartridge belt?

The Oklahoma Constitution, that voluminous and radical document, gave new treatment to lots of new questions and provided plenteously for probable emergencies. But it seems to have forgotten about prescribing suitable garb for the head of the State on ceremonial occasions. The Governor, therefore, has issued, it seems, his ukase, pronunciamento and decree to the effect that nobody at all need wear a clawhammer at his ball. Jimswingers for every man jack—that is his simple rule.

If jimswingers is Oklahoman for sackcoat (or possibly frock-coat), as seems likely, what is Oklahoma for derby hat, tan shoes, four-in-hand and dog-skin gloves? What, even, is Oklahoman for pants? It feels as if we were on the edge of a notable enrichment of the language.

Get the Genuine Always.

A substitute is a dangerous make shift especially in medicine. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar cures coughs and colds quickly and is in a yellow package. Accept no substitutes. Howard Gardner.

The New York Goat.

The New York World is a great newspaper, but it prints many items that seem as unimportant as the majority of the items in the Coolidge Enterprise. On the editorial page of the New York World of last Monday there is a letter from a man complaining because the authorities will not permit him to keep a goat. In New York the people as generally keep goats as they keep pigs and cows in Coolidge.

Look For the Hose With This Mark on the Toes

There are many kinds of guaranteed hosiery but they are all imitations of the original "Holeproof."

When your husband goes out to buy sox, tell him to insist on "Holeproof"—tell him to look on the toes for our trademark.

This means more than you think—it means that if any holes appear within six months we give you new hosiery free.

But that is not all, the hosiery itself is more stylish and comfortable than any other on the market.

FAMOUS Holeproof Hosiery FOR MEN WOMEN AND CHILDREN

The makers use only the finest and softest cotton from Egypt and the Sea Islands. They pay 63 cents a pound, but could buy ordinary cotton at 12 cents a pound.

The yarn is three-ply in the body and doubled to six-ply in the heels, toes and knees. Common hosiery is made of two-ply yarn throughout yet it costs you as much as "Holeproof."

Comfort is supreme in "Holeproof"—the fabric is as soft and smooth as silk. Style is increased for the hosiery is shaped to fit the ankle like a glove fits the hand.

Men's hose come in eleven attractive colors and women's in six. Price $1.50 to $3 a box of six pairs. Children's hose, in black and tan, at $2 a box of six pairs. Please come in and see this hosiery today—it costs no more than the ordinary.

A Christmas Gift

And a Return It Led to Later On.

By T. C. BURROWS

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

The Count Edouard Germain was sitting in his study the morning before Christmas. It was during the later days of the eighteenth century, when the woes of the people of France had become so unbearable that mutterings were heard all over the land and loudest among the poor. For centuries the kings and nobility had through inordinate taxes sucked the very lifeblood from the nation. The count, who was a humane man, was meditating upon the storm that he saw brewing when the downtrodden should arise, turn and rend their oppressors. He was thinking especially of the Christmas season and that thousands of families would go as hungry on that day as on the other days of the year.

Suddenly he heard a shot.

"Ah," he said, "there is poaching going on."

He sat moodily regretting that the starving people about his estates needed his game, how they would persist in shooting it without leave and how he must punish them as lawbreakers, for he was a magistrate as well as a landed proprietor. Presently a servant announced that he was wanted below. He went down and saw a young man held by the gamekeeper and a groom. The count's little daughter Elise was standing looking on. The gamekeeper had in his hand a pheasant the culprit had just killed.

"Why do you shoot my birds without my leave?" asked the count.

"Because my wife and children are starving. I was thinking as I passed your estates that tomorrow will be Christmas, and I have nothing but a little black bread to give them for a Christmas dinner, whereas your woods are full of game. The temptation was too much for me."

"I am heartily sorry for you," replied the count, "but it is my duty to send you to prison. Besides, if I did not punish you within a few days I should not have a bird left on my estate."

"Papa," cried Elise, "will you give me a Christmas gift?"

"I have a number for you, my daughter," replied the count.

"Not those. One I wish for now. Give me this man's forgiveness."

The count, glad of an excuse for clemency, forgave the poacher and told the gamekeeper to let him take away the pheasant he had shot. As the culprit turned away he looked very hard at Elise.

"Why do you stare thus at my daughter?" asked the count.

"That I may fix her face on my mind. The day may come when a poor poacher may aid her."

Something in the words and the tone with which they were spoken made the count tremble.

Several years passed. The Count Germain was a prisoner in one of those old piles that had been used for centuries to hold persons whom the kings and nobility of France chose to put out of their way. His daughter Elise, who was now just stepping from childhood to womanhood, went to one of the members of the revolutionary committee who was at work with others on the nation's business to ask for a permit to visit her father that evening to bid him adieu since he was to die on the guillotine in the morning.

"What is your name?" asked the revolutionist.

"Elise de Germain."

The man started. He sat looking at her for a time, then said harshly:

"You mean Citizeness Elise Germain." Then, turning to one near him, he said:

"This is the daughter of the Count Germain. I am going to take her to see her father on condition that she reveals the hiding place of some aristocrats whose heads we want."

"Good, citizen; I trust you will get a lot of them."

The man took the girl with him to the prison, where he was well known, and into her father's cell. Once within he closed the door and said:

"Mademoiselle, you once gave me a present—my liberty and a pheasant for my starving family for a Christmas dinner. I am going to try to give you a return—your father. Wait here."

The man went away and called for the governor of the prison, to whom he said:

"I have discovered a plot to rescue tonight a prisoner here, the Count Germain. He must be removed at once. Call a fiacre."

A keeper was sent out for a fiacre, while the revolutionist returned to the count's cell.

"Come," he said.

The count and Elise went with the man, who held the count's arm, and after a few minutes' wait within the prison door were hurried into a vehicle.

The revolutionist gave his order in a whisper to the cabman, who drove off at a gallop. He stopped before the house of the revolutionist, where the count was concealed for a day, and the next night in a suit of his preserver's clothes he passed out, shouting, "Down with aristocrats!" Within a week he was safe in Brussels.

There his daughter joined him, and other members of his family followed. Years after all this happened he returned to France and his estates and received as his more than welcome guest the man who had saved his life.

"It is better to have it and not need it than to need it and not have it."

Peace reigns. Direct White House intimations have been put forth for public information that ever since the late election there has been friendly exchange of letters between President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt, involving discussion of important matters of administrative policy, and that old friendship has been newly soldered by warm exchange of Christmas greeting. This is as it should be. It does honor both to the present Chief Executive and the late lamented. Men may differ nobly and be friends, or meanly and be enemies.—Philadelphia Record.

Mr. Taft seems to be a man without resentment. That is, if the above is true and he has permitted the old friendship to be renewed without requiring the ex-President to repent in sackcloth and ashes. For immediately on his return from Africa, Mr. Roosevelt inaugurated a policy of neglect and studied indifference as touching the President that was most noticeable. Every man should be prepared to forgive an injury, but to forgive lightly is to be lacking in one of the essential parts of a strong, well rounded character.

Edward L. Sabin, in the January Lippincott's, has an article entitled "Stomitis." Now this is a very attractive subject. How to get the stomach to do its duty is a pressing problem with every one except those very fortunate individuals whose stomach is so thoroughly on its job that they never have to give it a thought. The writer in Lippincott's elaborates the theory that what is one man's meat is another man's poison. For instance he says that people who like beefsteak and with whom beefsteak agrees needn't drop it just because somebody has tried nuts and come to the conclusion that they form the best food. Mr. Sabin concludes, most sensibly it seems to us, that "our stomachs are our own; they are individual stomachs; and by a little care we learn to know there aptitudes better than does somebody a thousand miles away, who would submit his stomach as a universal estimate." Thus one is reminded that there is nothing new under the sun, for some Greek philosopher said many centuries in advance of Mr. Sabin, "Know thyself." People have run too much to fads and treated too lightly the conclusions reached through the experience of the race. The old remedies are best and the old conclusions are not all mistaken ones. As for the nut diet, we fancy that only those with exceptionally strong stomachs can stand it; the average man trying it will find that its chief characteristic is to bring on an attack of the colic.

Emory J. Hanes, writing in the New York Evening World a series of articles on "The Man Who Wins," says under the head "Interest in Business" some things that should be "passed along." Of course, the great majority of men are not, strictly speaking, in business. But in a broaer sense every man who works is in business. The live employe is in competition with his fellow employes and with the employes of other concerns; thus there is in connection with his work the spice of uncertainty and rivalry that makes all business enjoyable. But we cannot express the joy of the struggle that is denominated business with one-half the picturesqueness of the writer on the New York Evening World to whom we will here give way:

Interest in the business itself is only while the business is a struggle.

The moment it is an assured success that keen excitement which is called interest begins to languish. When a thing is done it always loses its power to entertain us. We contemplate it a few times, call in our admiring friends, and the transient pleasure begins to give place to a cool satisfaction which soon turns to dissatisfaction, because we can think of something additional and better.

Precisely so with business. The eager mind sticks down a flag far ahead. If ever one gets capital eonugh to do business! If ever one can escape borrowing! If ever one's name is as good as his bond and a tower of strength in itself! If ever certain parties come to time! The lordly competition shall be taken by a twigged nose. The new mill will be done soon.

There is something fascinating about peril. The young husband is all alive with the thrill of the danger that he cannot support her as he promised. What a joy in winning the rent! The pretty children haunt him all through the battle day on 'change or in the forum. Can he win? And the sunshine of their smiles, all ignorant as those babies are of their danger, makes a man tingle in every nerve.

It is splendid manhood that the danger inspires. No man ever did or ever can feel that electric excitement after he has made a sure success. There is no secret about the sportsmanship element in life. The spice is in the hazard. Hazard is one of man's greatest blessings.

There is so much of it that is ordained by nature that one questions why any feel the need of game gambling. The honorable peril is all about us. Our Creator has hid all the future. Life can never be dull except to the man who has got everything fixed with a title guarantee company. Most fortunately, though, the guarantee company may fail.

Step right along with the crowd. Accept the common lot of uncertainty. Inspire yourself with the joy of small victories every day. Do not let the harness gall with the care, nor the eye grow dim with its watching against the evil.

Never expect to be at ease. There is no ease except an occasional lifting of the oars to take breath and read her smile. There is an end, absolute and total. But God forbid that it come to us tomorrow. Shout for joy over the escape you made today. Was it not great?

Did you ever have a closer call? But you were the victor. It is pleasing to think of afterward. The silver spoon born man never had that joy, but his old father, who won the fortune, had years of it.

It is when we adopt danger into the family, and really domesticate her, that life becomes comfortable.

Pretty clever, that! But as we have said it should be broadened so as to apply to the employe as well as the employer. Every working man is engaged in a struggle in which danger lurks,—danger of being crowded out by better men, danger of having always to be a second rate worker, danger of sickness or other handicaps. It's all a struggle, but normally constituted men are looking for that very thing and, finding it, are content.

GOOD HEALTH RESOLUTIONS

"Resolution Number One: I will try to become more intelligent concerning my body," says Doctor Jean Williams in Woman's Home Companion for January, "looking with greater respect upon my physical resources and trying to realize more fully that upon them the force and success of my life largely depend.

"Resolution Number Two: I will arrange, if possible, to supply sufficient pure air for every breath I take, thus better to combat every source of disease that might attack me, to improve my chance for long life and to increase my efficiency.

"Rsolution Number Three: I will be kinder to my digestive organs, avoiding all excess and not asking them to struggle with food for which they have repeatedly shown antagonism.

"Resolution Number Four: I will treat my brain and nervous system with greater consideration, and fifty-six hours of each week shall be devoted to sleep.

"Resolution Number Five: I will try to do in eight hours as much hard work as I should do in one day.

"Resolution Number Six: I will devote at least two of the twenty-four hours to such exercise as I find most beneficial.

"Resolution Number Seven: I will give my moral support to every effort, public or private, in behalf of the betterment of health conditions, so becoming a small factor in the great movement for moral and physical uplift."

ONE MOTHER TO LICENSE PAIR

Marriage Paper Refused Half Brother and Sister.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Dec. 28.—Answering that they had but one mother between them and were therefore half-brother and sister, Bella Moss, aged 21, a native of Philadelphia, and Paul Lunnon, a traveling man, with headquarters in Buffalo, N. Y., were today refused a license to wed by the startled license clerk.

The couple went away much disappointed, murmuring as they went out of the city:

"What difference did it make, so long as they loved each other?"

"Your daughter's brain, madam, appears to be normal." "Dear, dear, we've never had anything of that kind in the family before, I'm sure!"—Cleveland wPlain Dealer.

BRUISED FINGER NAILS.

A Simple Remedy That Keeps Them From Turning Black.

A young woman who was going to a debutante dinner the next evening bruised three of the finger nails of her right hand badly by catching them in a door. Visions of an unsightly hand, possibly one in a sling, drove her to the telephone to get in touch with her physician.

His advice was: "Get yourself a comfortable chair and an interesting book, set yourself by a stationary washstand in such a way that the fingers can be held upright under the faucet, then turn on the cold water and let it run over the bruised fingers for at least three-quarters of an hour, preferably longer.

"If the water gets too cold or chills you during that time turn it off for a few minutes, but never once let the hand get out of the upright position so the blood can run into the bruised finger and blacken."

The maiden's hand was unmarred for her dinner, and she was so delighted with the remedy she told it for the benefit of the guests, one at least of whom has tried this cure repeatedly since, being inclined to awkwardness and badly bruised fingers. No matter how bad the hurt, unless the finger is mashed the throbbing will not be followed with weeks of blackened nails.—Exchange.

VICE PRESIDENT KING.

Took the Oath of Office Abroad, but Did Not Live to Serve.

William Rufus King, born April 6, 1786, died April 18, 1853, was a vice president of the United States who never served in that capacity and one who took the oath of office on foreign soil, something which can be said of no other executive officer who has ever been elected by the people of this country. King was an invalid, but his friends urged him to take second place on the ticket with Pierce in 1852.

Both were elected, but Mr. King's health failed so rapidly that he was forced to go to Cuba some two months before inauguration day. Not having returned to the United States by March 4, congress passed a special act authorizing the United States consul at Matanzas, Cuba, to swear him in as vice president at about the hour when Pierce was taking the oath of office at Washington.

This arrangement was carried out to a dot, and on the day appointed, at a plantation on one of the highest hills in the vicinity of Matanzas, Mr. King was made vice president of the United States amid the solemn "Vaya vol con Dios" (God will be with you) of the creoles who had assembled to witness the unique spectacle. Vice President King returned to his home at Cahawba, Ala., arriving at that place April 17, 1853, and died the following day.

Wedding Fees In New York.

Large wedding fees are rare even in New York. Fees of $50 and $100 are considered large. The $1,000 fee when it makes its appearance usually goes to the rector of a wealthy congregation who enjoys a salary of $10,000 or $12,000 a year. Larger fees are sometimes given. The man of wealth, actuated by a high regard for his pastor and friend, occasionally gives his check for $2,000 or $3,000 under the guise of a wedding fee. He wishes to help the minister and knows the money would not be accepted under any other circumstances. Such gifts, it is needless to say, are extremely rare. New York has a few clergymen whose marriage fees average $1,200 a year. The pastor of a large Presbyterian church on Broadway has estimated that his fees amount annually to $1,000. These are topnotch figures.—Christian Herald.

Ich Dien or Eich Dyn.

Which is accurate as the motto of the Prince of Wales—Ich Dien or Eich Dyn? The one is German and the other Welsh. The one means "I serve," the other "Behold the man" or "Behold your man."

"Ich Dien" was the motto of John, king of Bohemia, whom the Black Prince slew at Crecy. "Eich Dyn" are the words supposed to have been used by Edward I. when presenting his infant son to the Welsh assembly at Carnarvon.

Welsh tradition has adhered naturally to the Welsh form. The other has been more popularly accepted.—London Lady's Pictorial.

NINE TONS OF SPOILED EGGS

Government's Biggest Seizure of Rotten Mess.

Jersey City, Dec. 28.—United States Deputy Marshall Beekman, United States Food Inspector Lind, seized yesterday nine tons of eggs declared to be rotten at the Merchants' Refrigerating Company's plant, at Bay and Warren streets. The seizure is one of the biggest yet made by the government in its crusade against the sale of rotten eggs to bakers, confectioners and others for use in food products. The warrant for the seizure, which was issued by Commissioner Carpenter, describes the frozen liquid eggs as "filthy, decomposed and putrid animal matter."

In all Beekman and Lind seized 659 cans of "liquid eggs," each can containing 30 pounds of the stuff. The cans were traced by the government men from Chicago to the Merchants' stores. On October 25 the Merchants' Company received by way of the Erie 253 cans from the Chicago Cold Storage & Warehouse Company, and on December 1 there arrived 196 cans from the same concern, while 210 cans came from the Union Cold Storage Company, of Chicago, October 18, by way of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The State Board of Health will be called upon to destroy the eggs for the United States inspector.

The Arab Plowman.

To see an Arab steering a yoke of oxen, one hand pressed upon the single stem of the plow and the other holding the long, slim goad, is to see a living illustration of how Elisha looked and moved when Elijah found him plowing and cast his cloak upon him in significant symbolism of his destiny. It has often been remarked that, while imperishable relics of Roman stonework abound in northern Africa in the form of bridges, aqueducts and so forth, the impress left on the people themselves by the greatest civilizing power that ever existed is extraordinarily slight. Only in some such insignificant details as the names of the months in the Kabyle dialect is the stamp of Rome still visible, and in the system of hiring labor in the Tell there survives a custom belonging to the early days of the Roman republic.—Wide World Magazine.

Ancient Spectacle Makers.

The ancient Guild of Spectacle Makers is numerically one of the strongest London companies. Its charter dates from the year 1629 and, though the exact date of its origin is lost, there is ample evidence that the calling of spectacle maker was extensively followed at a very early date. An old book of 1563 mentions the spectacle makers among other traders, and the biography of Carlo Zeno, an illustrious Venetian, who died in 1418, mentions that even at the age of eighty-four he needed no artificial aids to his sight. So presumably spectacles were common in Italy five centuries ago.—London Telegraph.

Different Altogether.

Visitor (consolingly to Tommy, who has upset a bottle of ink on the new carpet)—Tut, my boy, there is no use crying over spilt milk.

Tommy—Course not. Any duffer knows that. All you've got to do is call in the cat and she'll lick it up. But this don't happen to be milk, an' mamma will do the lickin'.

An Account to Settle.

The Lawyer—Madam, I find that your husband's will leaves you nothing but what the law compelled him to leave you. The Widow (angry and forgetful)—Just wait till I see him!

An Example.

Knicker—They say that in 3,000 years Niagara will stop flowing. Mrs. Knicker—That makes me hope the plumber will get our leak fixed yet.—Harper's Bazar.

STOMACHITIS

After all, it is pleasant to reflect that we are not all made upon the one pattern—inside or outside; and that what is one person's meat is another person's poison. We who love beefsteak, and whom beefsteak loves, need not be influenced to drop it (as long as we can get it) just because somebody, out of his own experience, insists that the best diet for the human race is nuts or fruit or vegetables.

Strides into print Tom Jones, relating how he lives upon a handful of nuts daily for lunch at noon, and an apricot salad for dinner at night. This course saved him from death by indigestion or mal-digestion, has made a new man of him, and he would spread his gospel of how to get well and keep well. Yet from where I write, I can see at work a man weighing close to two hundred, who also was once a "dyspeptic," and who saved his life by a strict diet of warm blood and raw meat.

To the vegetarian and the fruitarian, the meat-eater may point to the fact that in fur-hunting days of the West the daily ration of employees of the American Fur Company was six pounds of buffalo meat; and that from year to year the sole food of the trapper was meat—raw, cooked, and jerked. The Sioux and the Comanche alike lived upon the buffalo, and the wild cherries occasionally mixed with the pemmican were the only fruit or "vegetable" that ever went down their gullets. Yet who could or can surpass in endurance the mountain-man of beaver times, or his contemporary, the Indian?

The Eskimo subsists mainly upon blubber; the Bahaman upon fish; the tropic dweller upon bananas and breadfruit; as said, the menu of trapper and Indian was meat exclusively—meat as strong and as red as beef. To some persons, strawberries are a poison; to some, milk; to some, peaches—I would much rather put away a porterhouse steak than a spoonful or forkful of Tom Jones's apricot or peach salad.

There is the no-breakfast cult. But to some of us breakfast is the most pleasant meal of the day. If I have no breakfast, I have a headache instead; and a moderately hearty breakfast carries me gallantly through the day until dinner at night. And I notice that many of the no-breakfasters and one-mealers in their two meals or their one meal make up for previous omissions.

This volatile world is running to stomachitis, and it behooves a squad of us independents to stand firm for our rights. When breakfast agrees with us and we with it, we will retain it, and not be driven into experiments. And when we so relish a thick steak, or pork chops, or marcaroni, or mince pie, or tea and coffee, and they cannot be arraigned by us for cause, we will stick by our old friends.

For our stomachs are our own; they are individual stomachs; and by a little care we learn to know their aptitudes better than does somebody a thousand miles away, who would submit his stomach as a universal estimate.—Edwin L. Sabin in January Lippincott's.

Death of Infant.

Marie, the infant daughter of Prof. and Mrs. F. Lockner, died shortly after midnight at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Jacobs, 245 Bellemead street. The child was ill only a short while.

Just the Opposite.

Said the magistrate, "Come, now, you don't really believe he meant to put your eye out."

"Faith, you're right this time," said Pat, "for I believe he tried to put it farther in."—London Tit-Bits.

SOUTHERN LIFE & TRUST CO.
This the 26th day of November, 1910.

Every Minute Counts.

A business man from a small southern town was visiting New York. A friend asked him what was the most impressive thing he had seen so far—the high buildings, the subway, the ocean liners or what.

"None of them," was the prompt reply. "The thing that impressed me most was the rush in everything. I was in an office one day, and a young woman, evidently a new hand, was opening the mail. There must have been several hundred letters. She cut one open, took out the letter and laid it in its proper basket.

"Here, that will never do," said the boss. "Every time you lay down that paper cutter and take it up again you are wasting time. Cut them all open first and then take them out. You will save at least ten minutes that way every day."—New York Sun.

A Different Idea.

A well known man had lectured upon color blindness, and at the conclusion of his remarks a collier, who had evidently not grasped his explanations, asked him if he would explain.

"Certainly," said the professor.

"Wot is this culler blindness, then?"

"Well," replied the learned gentleman, holding up a piece of red colored glass, "supposing that when you look at this you imagine it is green. That would be an instance."

"That's culler blindness, do yer say?" replied the man, with a look of contempt. "I should call it blessed ignerance!"—London Mail.

Saving Himself.

A little boy was asked by his mother to bring in some wood. Five minutes later his mother, looking out and seeing him sitting in the yard, asked why he did not fetch the wood.

"Oh, I am tired," he replied, "and if I use all my strength now, when I am a boy, what will I do when I'm a man?"—Omaha World Herald.

Courtesy to Strangers.

If a man be gracious and courteous to strangers it shows he is a citizen of the world and that his heart is no island cut off from other lands, but a continent that joins to them.—Bacon.

Hope.

"Hope," said William Dean Howells, "is not really an angel in a diaphanous robe of white, but only the wisp of hay held before a donkey's nose to make him go."

A Red Letter Day.

The Hon. Bertie—Anything unusual happen while I was out, Charles? His Man Charles—Yes, sir; your tailor did not call.—London Opinion.

There is nothing against which human ingenuity will not be able to find something to say.—Jefferson.

You Must Read This if You Want the Benefit.

J. W. Greer, Greenwood, La., suffered with a severe case of lumbago. "The pains were so intense I was forced to hypodermic injections for relief. These attacks started with a pain in the small of my back which gradually became fairly paralyzing. My attention was attracted to Foley's Kidney Remedy and I am glad to say after using this wonderful medicine I am no longer bothered in any way by my old enemy lumbago.' Howard Gardner.

Punishing Married Loafers.

Chicago Record-Herald.

The law dealing with wife desertion provides for the punishment of men "who abandon and fail to support their families." The "and" is ambiguous. It has been found impossible to punish men who "hang around" their families and live on the hard-earned dollars of their wives and children.

Chief Justice Olsen will endeavor to put an "or" in place of the "and" in the law. The change is necessary and just, for married loafers and shirkers who do not abandon their families are often worse than deserters.

But if the law is amended merely to provide for the imprisonment of such loafers the poor families will gain little or nothing. If the former could be compelled to work for the State and their earnings were paid to the wives a real reform would be achieved. Such proposals have been made at meetings of criminologists, but the difficulties in the way are enormous. Let us hope that the threat of imprisonment may prove sufficiently deterrent.

Getting Even With Husband.

Philadelphia Times.

Two women were lunching in a department store restaurant today, and talking, of course, about Christmas presents.

"My husband believes in useful gifts," sighed one.

"Don't you?" queried the other.

"Not exactly," she answered. "But my husband does. He is very practical, you know. Last year he gave me a hatrack. It was very nice of him. We needed the hatrack. He needed it especially, for I always keep my things in my room. But there were so many other things I wanted more," she sighed again.

"I was just crazy for a lingerie waist, or a string of gold beads, or one of those smart new belts, or—oh, half a dozen things! And he gave me a hatrack!

"But this year I'm going to get even. I've got him a practical gift, so we're going to be quits. I've bought him," she lowered her voice mysteriously—"I need them awfully—I've bought him a case of scissors."

Home protection is true wisdom. Vick's Croup and Pneumonia Salve ought to be in every home for its quick relief and prevention of two dangerous diseases and the more common ailments such as Colds, Catarrh, Burns and Chaps.

Take Care!

Remember that when your kidneys are affected your life is in danger. M. Mayer, Rochester, N. Y., says: "My trouble started with a sharp shooting pain over my back which grew worse daily I felt sluggish and tired, my kidney action was irregular and infrequent. I started using Foley's Kidney Pills. Each dose seemed to put new life and strength into me, and now I am completely cured and feel better and stronger than for years." Howard Gardner.

TRIPLETS HIS PRESENT ON THE HOLIDAY MORN

Mill Watchman, Heretofore Childless, Gasps, Then Says "Enough Is a Plenty."

McKeesport, Pa., Dec. 27—When Maurice Sweeney returned home early yesterday morning from his work as watchman at one of the big McKeesport mills he met Dr. Robert King, who was just leaving the little Sweeney home.

"Well, I'm your Santa Claus, Maurice," said Dr. King; "I've brought you a Christmas present that I think will please you."

Sweeney was childless, although he had been married 10 years.

"It's the best Christmas present I ever got in my life," answered Sweeney, fervently. "Is it a girl or a boy?"

"Oh, you've got both," retorted King; "two boys and one girl. They are all doing well, and I think you have the beginning of a fine, healthy family."

One of the triplets weighs 10 pounds, and Sweeney says he will certainly have it christened Maurice, in honor of himself. When he began to realize that there were now three more in the family he almost collapsed. On his small wages he has been able to make ends meet, and has saved a little money; but he has given up his dream of a little home of his own in the suburbs of McKeesport, and says he intends to use all his money to rear and properly educate his children.

To a McKeesport reporter Sweeney confided that though children are undoubtedly a blessings, "enough is plenty;" he shows no regret, however, at the unlooked-for size of his Christmas present. He went to work tonight at the mill as usual, for he says he can no longer afford to take a holiday, even at Christmas.

Wants To Help Some One.

For thirty years J. F. Boyer, of Fertile, Mo., needed help and couldn't find it. That's why he wants to help some one now. Suffering so long himself he feels for all distress from Backache, Nervousness, Loss of Appetite, Lassitude and Kidney disorders. He shows that Electric Bitters work wonders for such troubles. "Five bottles," he writes, "wholly cured me and now I am well and hearty." It's also positively guaranteed for Liver Trouble, Dyspepsia, Blood Disorders, Female Complaints and Malaria. Try them. 50c. at Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

Tomorrow evening at the Young Women's Christian Association, the young men of the city will be entertained. This will be the first entertainment of the kind ever tendered by the association here and promises to be a very enjoyable and interesting affair. Invitations have been sent out through the Baraca classes of the city, and all Baracas and young men friends of the ladies of the association are cordially invited to be present.

Thinks Airships Will Be Common As Street Cars.

Modesto, Califonia, Dec. 28.—Visions of the days when men shall use flying machines as they now use street cars are called up by a provision in the new charter adopted by the citizens of Modesto. Power is given to the city to construct and operate aviation landings as a municipal enterprise.

There are some things that even the most absent-minded of us can't forget.

Mr. T. J. Murphy, Sec'y and Treas.
Gate City B. & L. Association,
Greensboro, N. C.

Dear Sir—I beg to acknowledge receipt of check for $1,000.00, being in full settlement of matured stock, 10 shares in Series No. 2.

I desire to compliment your association on the manner in which your affairs are conducted.

The returns you make net an investor about 6 per cent., and to the wage earner I most heartily recommend your association as a safe investment, one in which the small weekly deposits soon grow to a substantial sum, while the little deposits are scarcely missed.

With best wishes, I remain,
Yours very truly.

IT IS ALL RIGHT

to ask a friend to do you a favor when it is impossible to secure the favor in any other way. But why ask a friend to go on your bond as surety when the Greensboro Loan & Trust Company can give better security than an individual at no extra cost for its faithful discharge of its duty as a trustee or executor or administrator. Why should you sign a bond by which your "heirs, executors, administrators and assigns are held and firmly bound" to pay for the default of others; perhaps after your death, every dollar of your estate? Tell your friend not to burden you with such a grave responsibility. Let the Greensboro Loan & Trust Company become responsible.

Talk this over with us—it will assist you.

Plans for the New Year

Your plans for the New Year will not be complete unless you have arranged for proper banking service. You should have a general account, subject to check, for handling the money that you use for current expenses. Then any money that you are not going to use immediately ought to be deposited in a Savings Account where the money will earn interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum. compounded four times a year.
